

EDITORIAL

The UDS International Journal of Development (UDSIJD) is out with its second issue for 2018 (Vol. 5, Issue 2). This Issue has twelve papers – four in the Agricultural Sciences, two in the Health Sciences and six in the humanities.

We will continue to provide an excellent scholarly platform for reporting empirical research findings, policy analysis and topical issues from varied disciplines with a development focus, on a regular and sustained basis. We hope to have a wider representation in many more subject fields in the subsequent issues. We therefore encourage academics, practitioners and policy makers to continue to submit manuscripts to this Journal.

The UDSIJJ continues to encourage young academics, researchers, development practitioners and entrepreneurs to exploit this open access platform in locating relevant and critical local research content for development in Ghana and the African continent.

The Editorial Team wishes to sincerely thank the University Management, authors, reviewers and staff of the Journal and all those who in diverse ways have supported in making this issue of the journal a reality.
